

Notes on this environment only

1. Management of Cosmos DB and BLOB – Agreed that development team will be given access to manage those resources temporarily (full access). Development team will be able to create the necessary DB's and containers for the application to work. Access needs to be removed once the following are in place: Final storage and Db containers, solution to upload and change report templates.
2. Changes to configuration after deployment must be recorded and templates (IaC) must be updated so when we deploy next, the configurations are not lost. Developers will need to inform CIP engineer.
3. Should the environment need to be discarded/destroyed, all data will be backed up before this task is done. Should the environment need to be re-deployed, the backed up data must be restored.
